Stinger Medical Wins the Tennessee American Business Ethics Award

(Murfreesboro, Tennessee. April 26, 2006) Stinger Medical, provider of mobile solutions and medical technologies, was honored at the Tennessee American Business Ethics Awards banquet, presented by the Nashville Chapter of the Society of Financial Service Professionals.

Stinger Medical was one of ten finalists for the Tennessee American Business Ethics Awards and brought home the award in its division. Stinger will now continue to the national competition, competing with other small businesses from around the country.

“We accept this honor with the entire Stinger family,” says Gary Coonan, founder and CEO of Stinger Medical. “Stinger was founded on the core values of integrity, excellence, dedication and humility. We are committed to living those values as a company and as individuals every day. This award is particularly special to us. To have had the opportunity to tell the Stinger story and be recognized for our commitment to our core values is both a thrilling and humbling experience.”

The Tennessee American Business Ethics Awards program honors Middle Tennessee companies that demonstrate a firm commitment to ethical practices in their everyday operations, philosophies and in response to crises and challenges. Stinger Medical completed an extensive application process designed to examine Stinger’s code of ethics throughout its business activities including interactions with employees, customers and the community.

Stinger Medical filled nearly two full tables at the banquet with almost every department being represented. “It was refreshing to sit among my Stinger peers and look across the room and see such a diverse cross section of society gathered to celebrate something as important as ethics,” says, Nathan Sanders, Assembly Area Manager for Stinger Medical. “Ethical behavior is valued so highly at Stinger; it was heartening to know that there are still like-minded companies out there that will not sacrifice ethical behavior for the sake of their bottom line.”

The winners were announced at an awards banquet held at the City Club in downtown Nashville. The event was presented by the Society of Financial Service Professionals Nashville Chapter and sponsored by Capital Financial Group, LLC; MassMutual Financial Group; Pinnacle Financial Partners; Innovative Financial Group; John Hancock, Humana, and Patrick E. Moore & Associates, an affiliate of Peachtree Planning Corporation.
