Stinger Industries Receives “Future 50” Award ...

(MURFREESBORO, TENN.)- Stinger Industries was honored Thursday evening at an awards banquet to celebrate the “2003 Music City Future 50” companies of Middle Tennessee. The ceremony took place at Gaylord Opryland Resort & Convention Center and highlighted the achievements of the 50 fastest growing businesses in Middle Tennessee.

Members of the Nashville Area Chamber of Commerce narrowed the vast field of nominees down to 50 based on criteria such as past and projected revenue and employment growth. Stinger Industries was selected from a group of nominees including the most elite, privately-owned companies in the region.

The Nashville Area Chamber of Commerce initiated the “Music City Future 50” program 11 years ago as a way to identify and recognize the fastest-growing small businesses in the Nashville area. This was the first year Stinger Industries was nominated for the award.

“This award is a reflection of the dynamic group of people who come to work everyday at Stinger,” said Gary Coonan, president/CEO. “Our unique team atmosphere allows us to excel in meeting the needs of our customers and maintaining our phenomenal growth.”

“Our focus is on continual improvement and consistently delighting our customers with outstanding support and top-quality products,” Coonan said. “This philosophy is the foundation for everything we do at Stinger. We strive to develop the most innovative solutions to meet the demands of the evolving healthcare industry.”

Headquartered in Murfreesboro, Tennessee, Stinger Industries is the leading manufacturer of top-quality mobile computer carts for point-of-patient care. For more information about Stinger and its products, please visit its interactive Website at www.stingerindustries.com or call 888.909.8906.
